Dear Hiring Manager.

It looks like you need to build a geofencing system that can fetch the user/device's detailed info with the time and the geo-location.

I am highly interested in this project and I have right skills for the project.

I have experience in developing iOS and Android application the beer drinkers can toast each other in the same beer bar.

I used geo location and geo fencing in the development and I completed it's completed logic and programming..

Of course, your idea is not same as mine, but my experience contains same logic and codes.

I can develop both of mobile development and web development by myself.

I hope to discuss the details further.

Thank you.

Kind regards.

Taras.
